AMONG THE ATPLETES

Local Baseball League Series Will Begin Next Week.

Saengerbund Bowlers Won the Championship-Y. M. C. A. Preparing for Its June 2 Contests-Potomnes' Fast Crew-Corcorans' Surplus Players-E. A. C. Games.

The Baseball League of the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia, covering considerably more territory than in for mer years, has completed its organization and will at once actively take up the season's work.

Championship games will begin next week, and the season will end in September. The official schedule of games will be promulgated during the coming week. All games will be played at National Park and in the absence of a counter-attraction in the fielding positions will be selected to represent the corps in the league.

The team will be strong in the battery very prosperous season. Two games will be played Decoration Day.

The league teams are: Eastern Athletic Club, Young Men's Christian Association, Corcoran Cadets, Government Printing Office, Alexandria Va., and Rockville, Md. The latter two towns have strong teams and a large following and will prove quite The league does not confine the teams to a membership of amateur players, an some of the nines will be considerable strengthened by the addition of professional and semi-professional players located here. It will be more of a minor league affair. The officers of the league are Adam

Johnson, president; Dr. F. Housel, vic president; Capt. C. C. Edwards, secretary and Edward Rice, treasurer.

It is suggested that as most of the play ers are employed until late in the afternoon, that the league limit the number to three games each week, so that players will not be compelled to lose too much time from business. Daily games would make it impossible for some of the players to secure the necessary time. District Bowling League. After the most stubbornly contested series of championship games, lasting over six months, the District Bowling League has closed its season and the Saengerbund bowlers again hold the championship. Two weeks ago the Saengerbund, Carrol Institute and Y. M. C. A. teams were tied for first place after sec-sawing up and down the ladder for a full season. these teams began the work of bowling off the tie, total number of pins only, in three set games with each other, to be counted.

Next Friday the League will hold a meeting to settle its affairs for the season

The games in total pins resulted as fol-

Athleties at Y. M. C. A. The representatives of the Y. M. C. A made a decidedly good showing in last Monday's games at Baltimore, the occasion being the annual spring championships of the Atlantic Division of the A. A. U. The prizes won included: One first, four seconds, and one third, distributed as follows: Royce Hough, first in running high jump, five feet eight inches, and third in shet-put; Ferris second, in 220-yard run, and second in broad jump; "Mike" Stu-art, second in half and one mile runs. The relay team met with a big disan-ment when it reached the Athletic It then, and only then, discovered that there was no other relay team en-tered and of course, the boys were not, after that, in the best of humor. The team, which is almost an entirely new one and recently worked up by Prof. Beckett, consists of D. Church, J. C. Spaulding, R. B. Reddington, and W. H. McEifresh. The relay team will be kept in condition for the Apsociation's June 2 games. McElfresh contemplates locating in New York, and Prof. Beckett hopes it will not the former High School sprinter, too, has taken up the colors of the Woodsides. So with these men out and Karus, too, the association will have to depend al-most entirely upon the new material now being developed by Mr. Beckett, assistant games of June 2 promise to be very well attended by out-of-town performers, and with Duffy, Minnehan, Kranzlein, Carroll, Tewksbury, Sprinstein, and others to compete in the scratch events specially arranged for them, it is likely that the games will be the most attractive the as-sociation has ever had. The bowling team made a gallant fight for first place honors and took part in the roll-off of the tie and finished second, with a total of 4,683 pins for the tie series. Of course the bowlers are pleased over the excellent showing for the first year in the league.

Mr. Holton, formerly assistant physical instructor of the local Association, and Dow finishing out the season with the West Branch Y. M. C. A., Baltimore, has ac-cepted a very flattering offer to become the physical instructor and athletic director at the Western Maryland College, West-minster. He is the right man for the place and athletes will take on a boom at the college named. His duties begin over a strong track team from the West Erauch impete in the Association June 2

Potomac Boat Club.

The intermediate eight of the Potomac Boat Club has begun to work in earnest and during the past week was out several times doing short spins. The scating of the crew has not yet been definitely set-tled upon. The absence from the city of Lunsford, last year's successful stroke, is making Capt. Zappone do some guesswork as to who will set the stroke this season, if Lunsford does not return.

Gordon and Daly have both taken a hand at stroke this week and both have made a good impression. Maize who filled the responsible position for some weeks last year may make a bid for the place.

The crew as it rowed several times last week had: Gorden stroke; Daly 7; Heth 6; Britt, 5; Maize, 4; Mangan, ; Mays, 2, and

There are so many junior men on hand and good ones, too, that it is going to be quite a task to pick a crew. There is enough good material on hand, from which at least two fast "eights" can be develop-

The club's member hip is large steadily growing. It is reported that the C. A. C. "eight" of last year will be wearers of the Potomac colors this season. It is understood that the deal looking to the purchase of the C. A. C. & fast eightenred shell is off and that the club has closed the purchase of a boat from one of the Northern clubs.

Corcoran Cadet Corps.

The management of the Corcoran Cadet Corps baseball branch has so much good material on hand from which to select a team and substitutes that it will have difficulty to confine itself to fifteen men, the limit set by the league.

In order to get the best possible prac-tice and results, Manager Edwards has ar-ranged two teams, and the best men for department. Cranston of Georgetown, will do most of the backstop work, and Ed-wards, Waple, and one other not ready to name will do the two ing. Captain Edwards reports that he has signed four of the Georgetown players who will join his team at the close of their season.

The teams which line up for practice are known, respectively, as the "Lobsters" and "Fakers," and include the fol-

Eastern Athletic Club. The Eastern Athletic Club baseball team is putting in all its spare time practicing for the league games, which open next week. Manager Housel has a number of out-of-town games under consideration prominent among them being two games for Decoration Day. He hopes shortly to close with Georgetown University for a game when that team returns from its Northern trip, the first week in June. Charlie Dunn, the popular little outfielder of the team, who had the misfortune to injure his thumb a fortnight ago practicing catching flies from the flywheel, further crippled himself last week for some time to come by slipping and spraining an anvie. Out of thirty-seven starters in last Sunday's public century given by the Highland Wheelmen, there were thirty-three survivors who qualified for the medals which they will receive in about ten days, The following qualified: R. Johnson, H. De until after the games.

The track performers who will be missed are: Speare, the very clever sprinter and member of last season's unbeaten relay team. He has taken a membership in the Woodside Athletic Club, and will land many points first.

Ford, who is a fast middle-distance man, has severed his connection and may run for the Woodsides. Likewise with Meiss, a most promising sprinter. Ray Safiold, the former High School sprinter, too, has Yates, O. Miller, F. Potts, A J. Christman, R. H. Rhine F

Ryan's men set in to win at the start, and in the first inning, after there were two outs, Ganzel, the new first baseman, made himself solid with the home crowd by knocking out a hit that scored two runs. Boston did not get a tally until the eighth inning, although in the seventh the visitors made four successive hits. Then the Easterners got their runs in a bunch, being assisted by two errors on

BASEBALL NOTES.

Cossip About the Players, Managers and Clubs.

Jim Hart, President of the Chicago Club, was the first one of the magnates to suggest the return to the single-umpire system, and he induced a majority of his brethren to adopt his views. President Young was instructed to schedule the work weather and choppy seas the boat race of the umpires. Before Mr. Young began arranging this schedule he received many soon between the Naval Academy crew and be University of Columbia, did not occur. The torpedo boat Manley, containing oaches of both crews, captains, and man-participated. This action destroyed the object sought to be attained. It was a serious handicap to President Young and prevented him from arranging a schedule that would be fair and equitable to ill parties. Yet, in the interest of harmony— of which Hart claimed to be the real exnonent-Mr. Young arranged a schedule which, under the circumstances, no rea-conable man would object to. But Mr. Hart, disgusted with the picture which his own fancy had conceived, now lays the blame upon the shoulders of "Uncle Nick" for the unsatisfactory arrangement of the schedule and seeks to rangement of the schedule and seeks to show that Tim Hurst, a favorite at St. Louis, is scheduled to umpire more games in that city than anywhere else, which, under the conditions, could not have been avoided unless Mr. Young had paid no regard to the request not to assig to certain games. Now Hert is asking his associates to Jaoin him in an effort to have the double-umpire system restored, which will probably be done.

Now that Hart and Robison have their Now that Hart and Robison have their teams satisfactorily made up and are not carrying any surplus men, they announce that they are in favor of establishing a rule prohibiting any club from carrying more than sixteen players. This is selfishness upon their part and such a proposhould be allowed to carry as many extra players as they are willing to pay for. No unfair advantage can result from it. It is good business sense in order to prepared for accidents and sickness to carry a good reserve force.

Fred Clark, of the Pirates, is being justly denounced by the players of the League for the fiendish disposition he has fre-quently shown to spike basemen. If Clarke does not cut this accomplishment out of his repertoire he will yet come to grief.

In securing the services of Lave Cross from the St. Louis Club, Ed Hanlon has shown wisdom. As a third baseman and all around player Cross is the peer of the best of them. By this arrangement Hanlon will be able to send Joe Kelly back to left field, where he has distinguished him-self in the past, and where he will be a tower of strength in the future.

Arlie Latham's attempt to umpire a game of ball at St. Louis a few days since resulted in a dismal failure. Both sides suffered from his eccentricities.

John T. Brush has wisely said that the magnates should have nothing to do with the selections of umpires; that they should be employed by some person having no financial interest in any club, and when to employed their work should be equitably distributed and that their discharge should be obtained only upon a majority vote of the club owners. This is good sense.

The rain of yesterday spoiled the game arranged by the Georgetown College and the Virginia team. The Virginians were very much disappointed, as they were confident of victory.

The serious charges made against Um-pire Swartwood by Wolverton, and printed in last week's "Sporting News," if true, should cause the dismissal of that official from the staff. At all events the charges have been made and should be investi-gated by the League in the interest of

Now that Rube Vaddell has been exploded and is no longer considered a phenom, the Pittsburg management are seeking to gold brick some club by selling his release or trading him for a competent back stop.

Jake Beckley, who several years ago was relegated to the has-been class, is now playing the game of his life. He is batting over a .300 clip and playing a better all-around game than ever before

Since Arthur Irwin left the active management of the Toronto club that aggregation has become a confirmed loser, and is

Frank Robison thinks that the eight club league will make sufficient money this season to enable them to overwhelm all opposition that may arise in the future. The supposition is reasonably well founded that Frank and his associates will ed that Frank and his associates will have an early opportunity to put into cir-culation some, of not all, of their win-nings, in an effort to suppress an opposi-tion that is certain to come.

The massive frame of Herr Seeth shook with merriment. "Ah, my friend, the secret is to find out on which animal you can turn your back with safety. I do not show my back to every one of my twenty one lions. When my animals growl and paw at me, do they mean it? Sometimes they do," remarked Herr Seeth, enigmatically, "and sometimes they don't. When-ever they do drop their paws on me, you will notice that I never move. They are the big cats of the feline species, and their habits are almost identical. You try to move quickly, and at once they uncover turned, he stuck to his work regularly and their claws. And a scratch from a lion is
